Reasons to own your own home

Equity: Unlike rent, your mortgage payment is an investment in your home. At the end of the mortgage, you will own your own home.

Control: You can do anything with your home. You can make improvements to your home or have pets.

Stability: You can keep your home your whole life and never worry about eviction or rent increases. Unless you choose otherwise, your home will be there for you and your family.

Tax Benefits: Mortgage interest is tax deductible. This can decrease the amount you owe or increase the amount you will receive back on your Federal taxes.

However, owning a home is not for everyone! Generally your mortgage payment will be more than your rent. If something breaks in your home, you are responsible for getting it fixed. While selling your home is possible (even if you are still paying your mortgage), it is much easier to move out of an apartment.
